

Letter from Alexander Graham Bell to Sarah Fuller, November 2, 1897

924 Nov, 2nd, 1897. Dear Miss Fuller:—

As your telegram states that Mr. Green will not allow the autobiography of Francis Green out of his possession, it will be necessary for me to go to New York to see it. I would go directly from the Steamer Halife on arrival in Boston on Monday morning only that I find that there is to be a concert by the Boston Symphony on Monday night in Boston which I wish very much to attend. Would you be kind enough to obtain three tickets for me and come to the concert too. Susie McOurdy is on her way to school at , and as she also is fond of music I am sure she could enjoy the concert also.

I would suggest the following invitation for Memorial exercises:—

Hon John Hitz. Volta Bureau.

The Boston Newspapers.

Mr. Hitz has sent me a copy of “Vox Oculis Objecta”, but very much to my disappointment. I find that the very parts I want viz:— Part III and Appendix are missing. The copy is one with notes by Francis Green himself in his own handwriting, but is incomplete. I wish very much to obtain a perfect copy and have written to Mr. Hitz asking him to try and sent up a copy. Perhaps you know of o?e the I could see on my arrival in Boston.

Your sincerely, Alexander Graham Bell P.S. I think it may, likely think P. Green may have a copy in the Library & the Historical Society. agb
